WOLF
LOYOLA UNIVERSITY
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA
1977

THE WOLF . . .

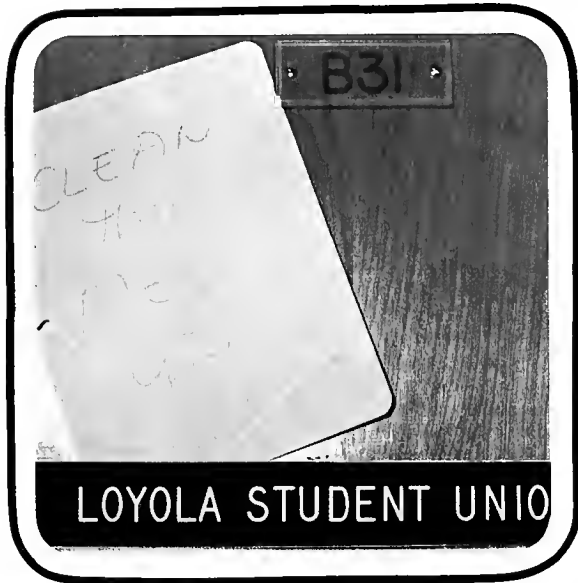

Almost a decade has passed since the Wolf last appeared on the campus of Loyola. There is no official recording of the people who became part of the community of Loyola during those years. There is no dust-gathering book which may be taken from its resting place to recall a lost name, to remember an old friend, or to remind one of the good times of the past. There are only the memories. So, it seems fitting that in this dynamic era of new beginnings, the Wolf would begin anew.

Traditionally, the Wolf represents Loyola University for a given school year. However, words and pictures alone cannot convey the true feeling that runs throughout this book. Instead, the year-book should be thought of as a collection of moments in time, locked forever in the present. For, as the days slip further and further into the past, these pages provide the mechanism by which the past and present are reunited, even if it is only to the extent that we relive the past in our mind. It is in this way that our true emotions of Loyola 1976-1977, can be felt long after the pages of the Wolf have begun to fade.

STUDENTS

Change is inevitable, for man is continually striving for higher goals. But the difference between the life style of the Loyola of the last Wolf and the Loyola of today is almost ludicrous. However some things, such as the feeling of anxiety before an exam, or the look of wonder in an infant's eyes, or the feeling of relief after the last class on a Friday afternoon, are as unending and universal as time itself.

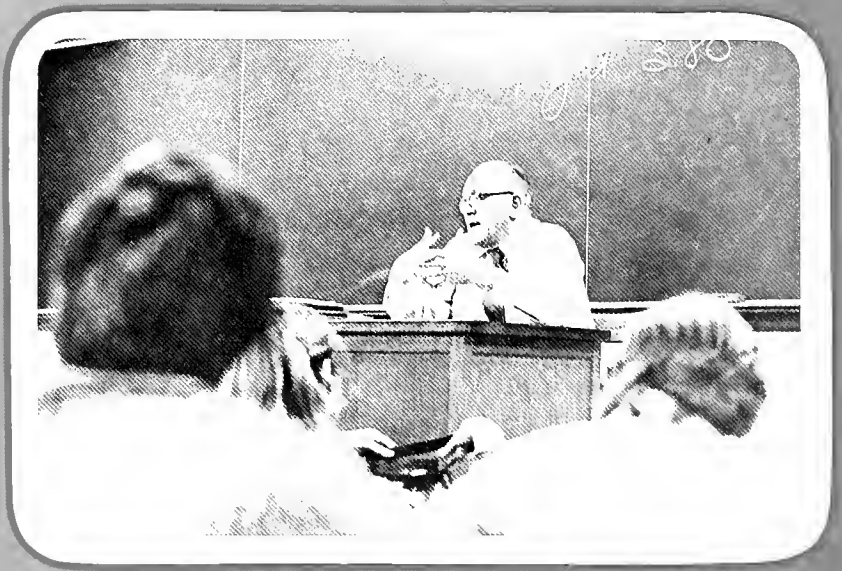

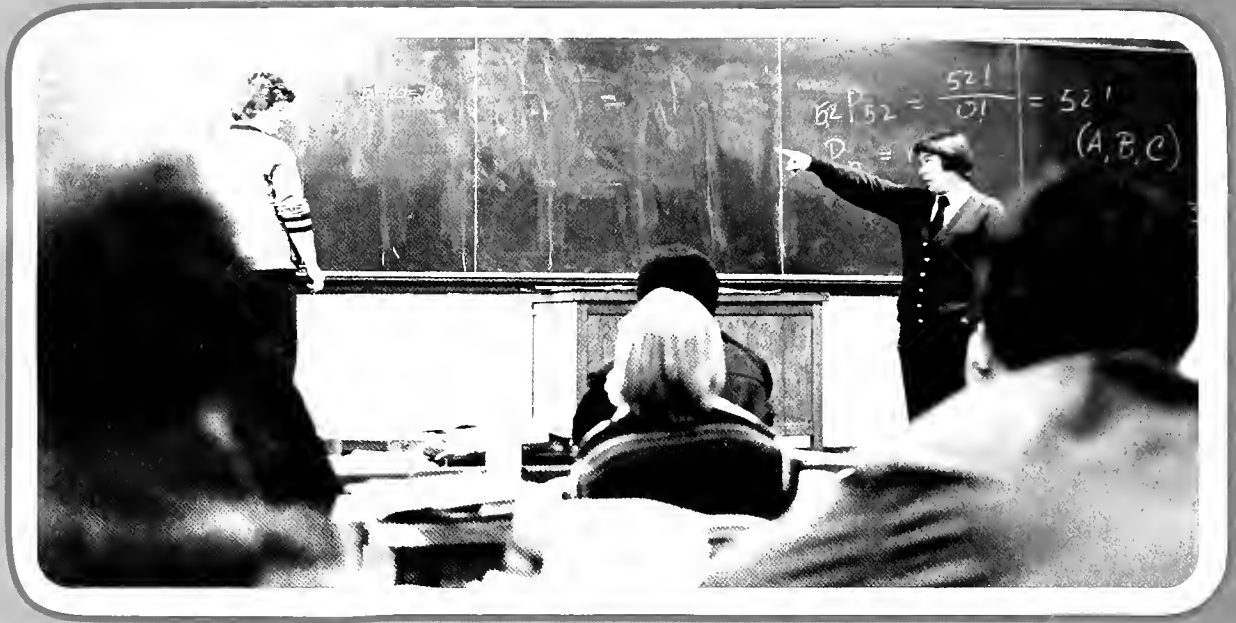

And so, this is your yearbook. It is a potpourri of people, places and events, all of which helped shape the history of this school year. If, as you look through it, you find yourself reminded of some fond memory, be comforted by the thought that the yearbook was a success.

SCOPE: John Freeman (tutor), Sterling Cincore (Director), Louis Schello (student).

The Institute of Human Relations has one overall goal, namely, that of laboring to create a society in which the dignity of the human person in whomsoever found will be acknowledged, respected and protected. Among its continuing programs are the National Endowment for the Humanities' Louisiana Program, the Labor-Management School, BLUE-PRINT, the Consumer Center, the Correctional Reform Program (with the AFL-CIO), The G.E.D. Continuing Education Program and various ongoing projects dealing with the concerns of women.

Founded in 1969, the New Orleans Review is a cultural publication of Loyola University. It features the works of Loyola's faculty and students as well as such noted writers as Norman Mailer and Walter Percy. The Review is published three times a year.

The Institute of Politics' primary goal is to locate young men and women with outstanding leadership potential, and bring them together in an educational program designed to endow each with a solid foundation in the exigencies of practical politics and government. The purpose of the program is to prepare these emerging leaders for entry into public life as candidates for office, government officials, and citizen activists in the affairs of their communities and nation. The Institute's ultimate aim is to improve the overall quality of political leadership.

SCOPE provides an opportunity for undergraduate education for those who normally could not enter Loyola. It is geared toward providing assistance to the educational and/or economic disadvantaged by offering a system of pre-admission with academic-year instruction, tutoring, and counseling.

Upward Bound helps high school students from low-income families develop the skills and motivation necessary for success in college. They live on a college campus during the summer and participate in a variety of academic, social, and cultural activities.

LUCAP is a student-run organization designed to "help the university community become more aware of the social problems that exist in the local community and our country as well." Serving as a channel for volunteer agencies in the city, the organization sponsors various activities in its efforts to provide services to the campus and community areas.

The Women's Center is a community oriented organization geared toward women in transition. It offers non-credit workshops and seminars to the interested public. On the fourth Friday of each month the Center holds an Open House featuring successful women of the New Orleans community.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

The Student Government Association is the overseer of all the other chartered student organizations. This year's President, Anne Bienfang, worked diligently with her Vice-President, Joe Altonji, and the rest of the student representatives in an effort to improve student life at Loyola. Many objectives were met and many were not. But when the reins were turned over to Joe Aidoo after the elections, the feeling left behind was one of success and accomplishment of a job well done.

BLUE KEY

In October of 1976, BLUE KEY sponsored a reception, with the Alumni present. At this function, there was the formal initiation of members who had been accepted in the spring of 1976, and those who had been accepted in the fall of 1976. These two groups were taken in at one time, in order to assure that Blue Key would have the best qualified students from each graduating class.

In the second semester, Blue Key and Cardinal Key sponsored jointly, a fund raising activity for people of Viet Nam, who have formed a village on the Mississippi River's West Bank.

CHESS CLUB

Only two years old, the Loyola Chess Club has already distinguished itself through local, regional, and national competition. In April 1975 Loyola played host to UNO and Tulane in New Orleans' first triangular college event. Through the support of the Student Union and Student Activities, each year the club sends a delegation to the Association of College Unions-International Regional Games Tournament, where in February 1976 Loyola took second place. Through the support of the SGA, the Chess Club has entered the Pan-American Intercollegiate Championship. This year Loyola's team — Jim Rousselle, Walter Gibson, Rick Durocher, and Jeff Waguespack — missed winning our division by half a point in the final round. Between tournaments, club members sharpen their skills at weekly meetings — Sundays in the Danna Center lounge. The club offers free instruction and plans a tournament for new members every year.

LOYOLA CHORALE

The Chorale is a group of Loyola takes pride in. Constant rehearsal and travel indeed make it difficult to maintain high academic standards, but they somehow manage. And the only thing that comes close to equalling the excellence of their voices is their physical appearance as they perform.

The 1976-77 Loyola Chorale

THE CODE

The Code is the Law School's monthly newspaper. Since 1972 it has provided timely information directed towards the Law community.

CITY COLLEGE STUDENT UNION

The City College Student Union is an organization endeavoring to unify the evening students socially as well as academically. It has sponsored numerous dances including a senior night for graduating seniors. In addition, this year they held a tennis tournament for City College students.

Craig Verrette (Vice-President), John L. Wisinger (Secretary-Treasurer), Henry Engler (Advisor), Len Rozell (President)

CROSS KEYS

Cross Keys is a student honor service fraternity of Loyola's City College. Cross Keys fosters an ambition for intellectual attainment and a desire to serve the City College students and Loyola University. This year they sponsored a book drive from which they donated the books received to Parish Prison and Jackson Barracks. They also held a Christmas party for the abandoned and abused children in the area.

LOYOLA LAW REVUE

This year the Loyola Law Revue, a publication dedicated to diligent research, serious appraisal and objective criticism of pertinent legal issues, published five editions, including the annual Fifth Circuit Symposium. Articles by prominent authors in the fields of Louisiana tort, family, and property law, accompanied by a broad spectrum of student-authored comments and casenotes, enabled the Review to contribute successfully to the continuing development of legal thought in our community.

MAROON

The award winning Maroon continued to maintain its high excellence of reporting the pertinent news affecting the Loyola community. With the help of good photography, interesting stories, funny cartoons, a lot of typing, and some hard work, the Maroon turned in another successful effort this year. A cold beer, an afternoon after class and an unread Maroon were enough to make any student happy.

WOMEN'S PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

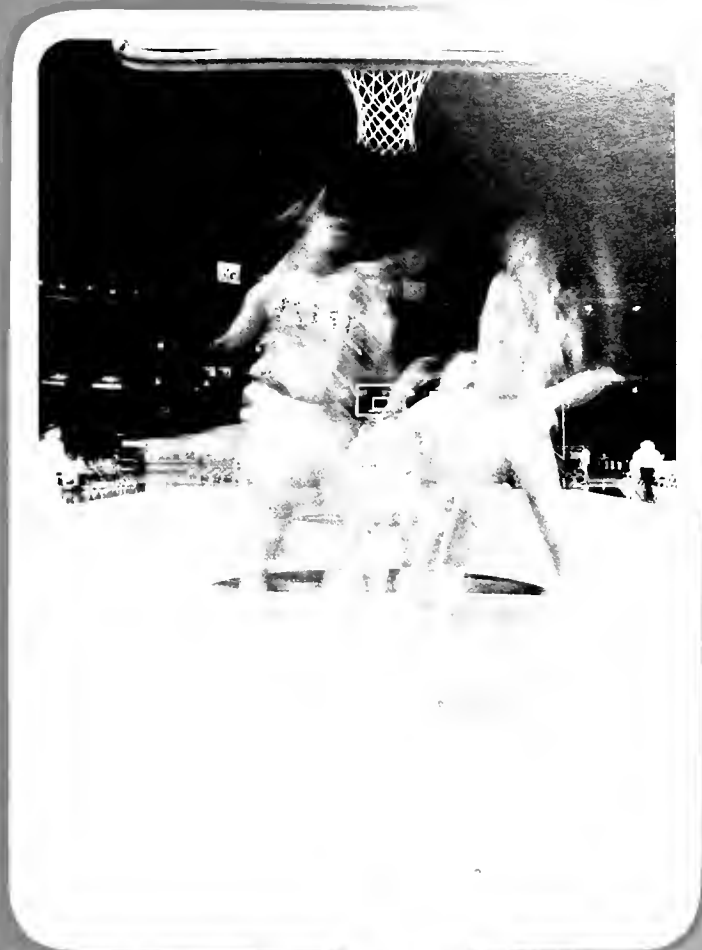

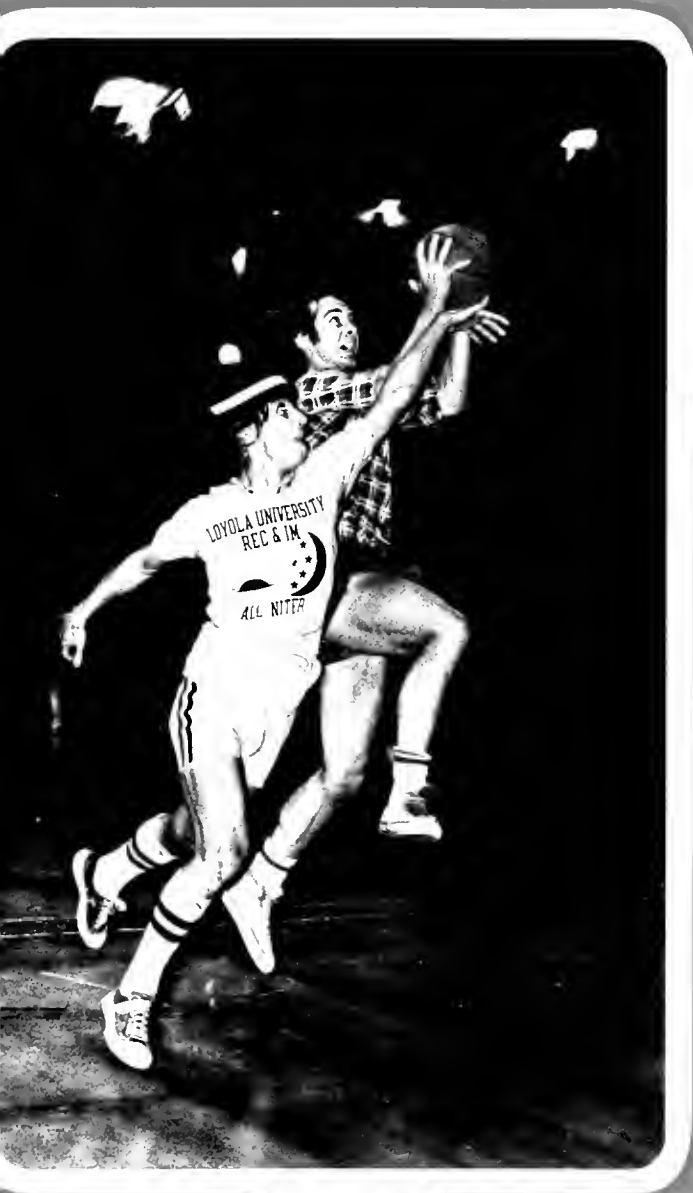

There are four sororities at Loyola — Alpha Kappa Alpha, Phi Phi Phi, Sigma Sigma Sigma and Theta Phi. Two representatives and the president from each of these sororities meet on a common ground to set the rules and regulations governing the sororities and sorority rush. This “common ground” is known as the Women’s Panhellenic Council. In an effort to promote inter-sorority relations and the Greek system on campus, the Panhellenic Council assists with university functions and sponsors its own annual Panhellenic Formal.

INTRAMURALS

On the banks of the Mississippi in Audubon park at 4:30 in the afternoon during the Spring semester, one could find the Intramural department holding its football competition. Both the men's and women's division provided exciting entertainment and fierce competition. But more importantly it gave everyone a change to forget about school for a couple of hours and play some football.

During the Fall semester basketball competition was held in the Loyola field house. In the hot confines of the field house the games became a question of endurance and stamina as well as just plain basketball skill. After the season an all-star team was selected to play a similarly chosen Tulane team in the Superdome. Though we proved to be a tough opponent, the Greenies won out in the end. We'll get them next time.

The annual powder puff game held in the Quad was again another great source of fun so much needed before exams rolled around. This year's winner — the Heavenly Devils — held off a tremendous second-half comeback by the Hellcats to squeak out a narrow victory.

For those who could not compete in the established Intramural sports, there were fun and games in the Quad. For a change of pace, contests such as egg throwing, barrel rolling, and softball throwing were held for big name prizes, such as a Charlie's Angels T-shirts or a $20 bar tab at a local tavern. It was a lot of fun.

IN MEMORIUM

KATHLEEN M. SCHULTZE

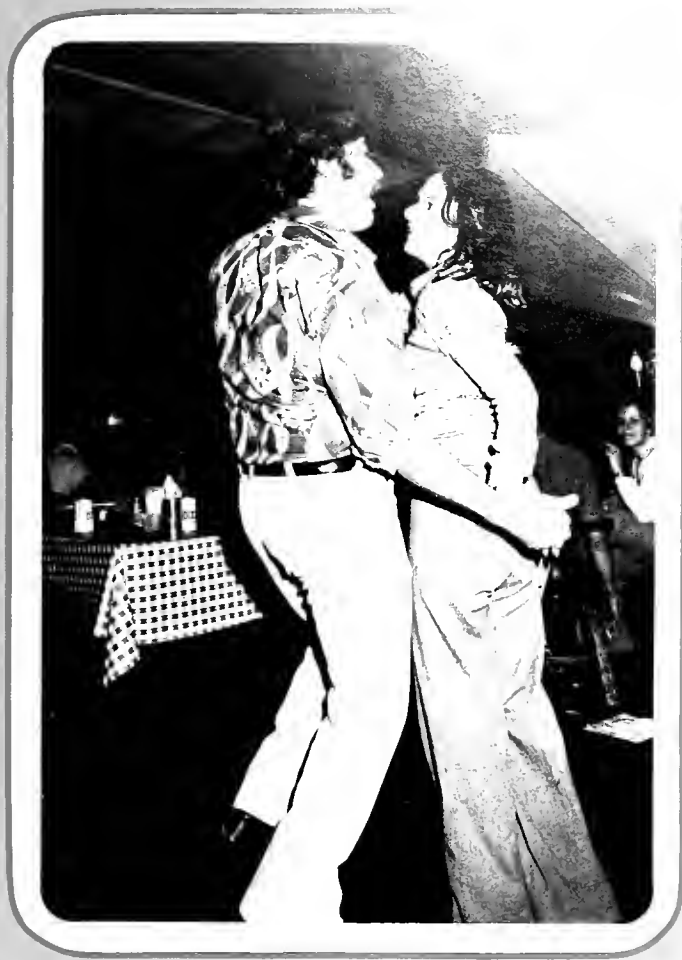

March 17, 1955 — December 19, 1976

NO DISTANCE OF PLACE OR LAPSE OF TIME, CAN LESSEN THE FRIENDSHIP OF THOSE WHO ARE THOROUGHLY PERSUADED OF EACH OTHER'S WORTH.

ROBERT SOUTHEY

STUDENT LIFE

HARDWORK AND DETERMINATION ...

How many books read, how many late nights spent studying, how many trips to the library, how many endless classes, how many computer cards punched, or teeth cleaned or notes played or stories written? ... just enough. And when it seemed most dismal, when it seemed that everyone but you was going out that night, you somehow managed. And very often, you found someone else to study with. It's funny how misery loves company.

(CLOCKWISE): 1) working in the lab, 2) student puts an empty classroom to good use, 3) constant practice, 4) getting one more book out of the library.

... FINALLY PAY OFF

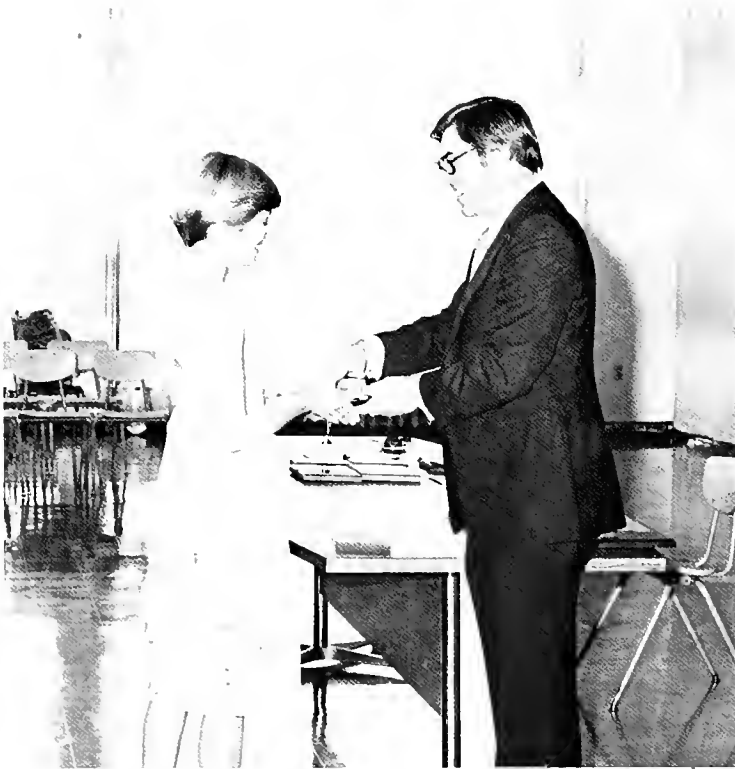

(CLOCKWISE; FROM ABOVE) 1) covering another story, 2) punching up just one more program, 3) Neil Clemmons accepts the Wall Street Journal award for outstanding Finance graduate, 4) Andree Boudreaux receives the John Wegmann award for outstanding Business graduate, 5) Juan Marrero accepts the Beta Alpha Psi Accounting award from Arthur Cosenza, 60 student scours possible reference items.

But in the end, it was all worth it. All of that hard work, perseverance, and determination have not gone to waste. And if we are one of the exceptional few, we will be awarded accordingly. But if not, we may still rest assured knowing that we have accomplished something. We have grown in mind and body, have become more mature and maybe, just maybe, a bit more wise.

(CLOCKWISE FROM ABOVE) (1) Laurie Suhr receives the Taylor award for outstanding Marketing graduate (2) Fr. Yenni presents the first annual award to be given in his name (3) Celeste Cancienne graduates with the highest average of all the graduates — a perfect 4.00 (4) Lou Ann Cupp receives the John G. Arnold Award from F. Carter (5) Richard Durocher accepts the ADG Bailey Award (6) Mary Baudouin is honored for her work with the underprivileged in the community.

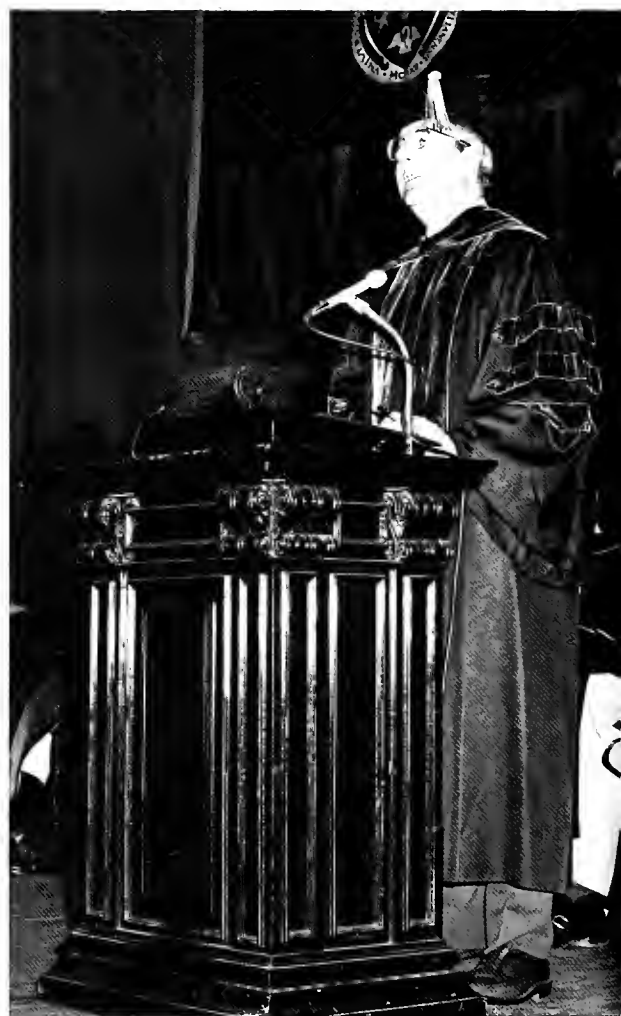

It's times like these when you know that the extra effort that you put in, the longer hours of study, the unmarred class attendance record, the unyielding conviction to a cause, were all worth it. And to be honored is somehow just. For many are called, but few are chosen.

COMMENCEMENT

And now it is time to leave Loyola University. Graduation is usually thought of as the end of the educational process. But as the name suggests, commencement, it is not the end but the beginning. It marks the start of a new phase of our lives. One which will probably entail dramatic change until we settle down into a set life pattern. But never fool yourself into thinking that you have all the knowledge you need to get by. For just as a plant is without water, one will soon stagnate, shrivel up and slowly die. Instead, always thirst for more.

BUT IT WASN'T ALL WORK

(CLOCKWISE, FROM ABOVE) 1) whispering sweet nothings, 2) piano man entertains on the patio, 3) girl watching from the third floor ledge, 4) grabbing a pitcher after the parade.

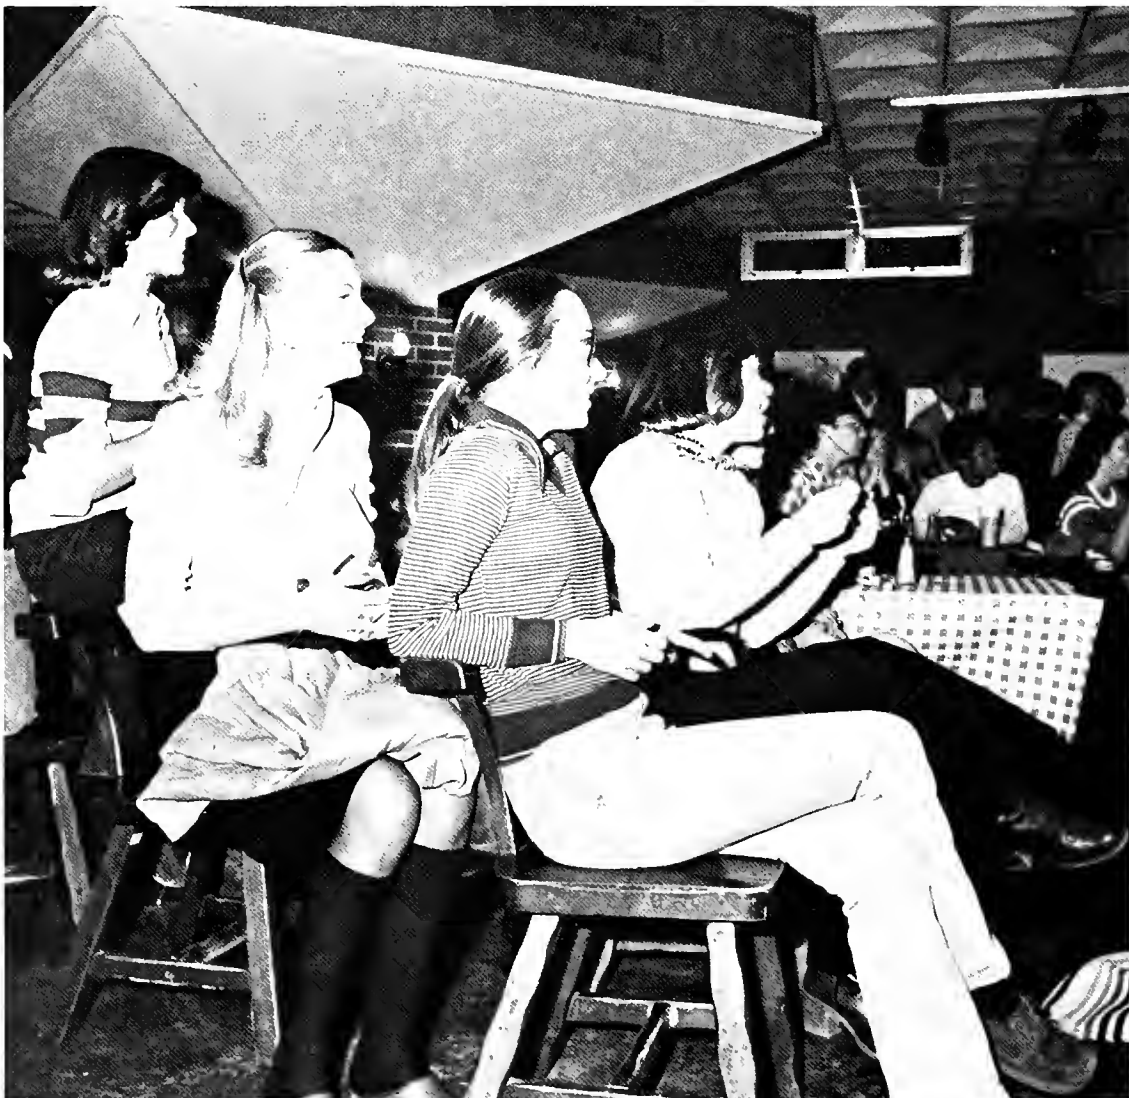

(CLOCKWISE, FROM LEFT) 1) 5 ball corner pocket, 2) basking in the sunshine, hiding in the shade, 3) relaxing to listen, relaxing to play.

THE WOLF PUB

The Wolf Pub was the site of many activities during the year. Debates dealt with topics varying from capital punishment to the platforms of Ford and Carter. Name that Tune, College Bowl, and The Dating Game were only some of the side-splitting entertainment sponsored by the Student Union.

But by far the biggest event was the Gong Show. Jam-packed with hundreds in the audience, many brave individuals performed their acts hoping the gong would not strike. From a gold-fish swallower to a strip tease artist, they were all there. And surprisingly some real talent emerged.

In addition to all this, the Pub is still the best place to get a hot pizza, a cold beer, and just relax.

ON ANY GIVEN DAY

Loyola is a potpourri of activity. The Danna Center serves as the hub for these events, with its spokes reaching to Ponchartrain Beach or the Riverboat Natchez. For there is always something to do or someone to see if you just will look. Seek and ye shall find . . .

(CLOCKWISE, FROM RIGHT) 1) Gloria Harris blows out candles on her birthday cake, 2) plant sales blossom in the patio, 3) students protesting over grades, 4) forever practising, 5) collecting for charity, he's got a big heart, 6) relaxing in the lounge, 7) another late night dorm meeting.

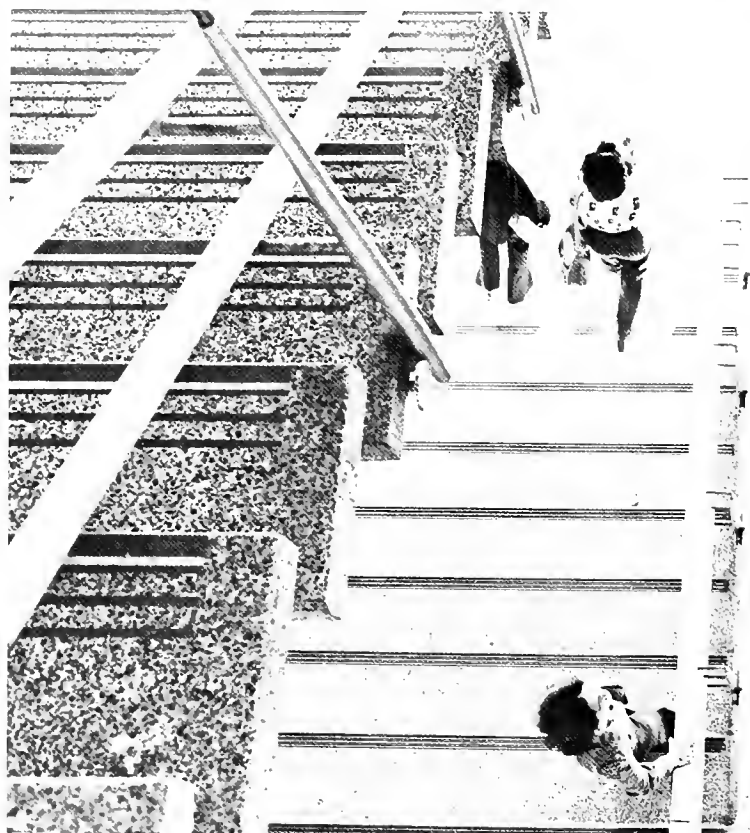

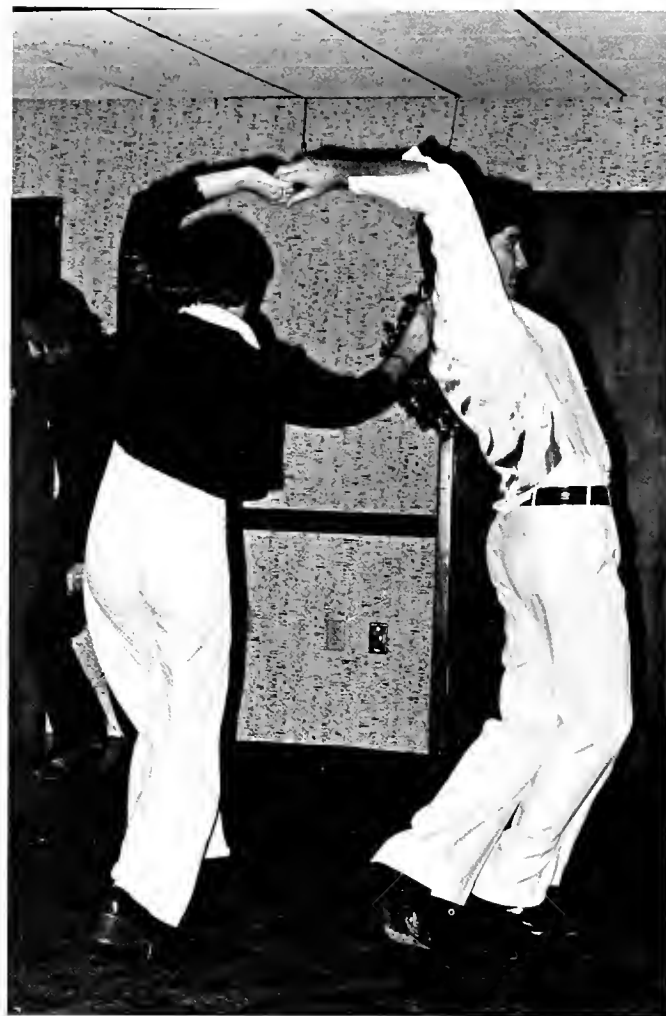

(CLOCKWISE, FROM ABOVE) 1) LUCAP volunteer at work, 7) Medieval Festival in Quad, 2) Dan Whelan tackles zephyr at Pontchartrain Beach, 3) going home for Easter, 4) taking it easy, 5) the 1926 undefeated Loyola football team, 6) resting during the ADG dance-a-thon, 8) chivalry is not dead.

This basically is what student life is at Loyola. To some it seems to be more work, to others, more play. But one fact remains. Its diversity and dynamic character make for a very interesting atmosphere. And only our attitude determines whether or not we will enjoy it.

(CLOCKWISE, FROM LEFT) 1) Pantomime in the Quad, 2) Upstairs, downstairs, 3) Nancy Heck discusses activities with Manny Cunard, 4) one couple struts their stuff, 5) SMILE!

JOIN THE UNION

WOULD BE SO NICE

7

This was a year of new beginnings. It marked the start of our nation's third century of independence as well as the reinstatement of the Wolf. But those are not the things by which this year will be remembered. No, if this year is not to blend in with the rest of the past, it will only be because the people we came to know during this time have made it something special.

We have tried to provide the scrapbook in order to keep those memories aglow. Memories of not only this school year, but memories of the wonderful people we came to know and love and whom we wish to never forget.

EDITOR'S ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Like the university it depicts, the Loyola Wolf is the sum total of the energies, talents and dedication of the people who have put it together.

They had often been asked to do what seemed to be impossible; to accomplish much more than they had time for; Yet they always came through. Without their persistence the Wolf would not be completed. It is to these special people I want to say thanks —
